O'KEEFFE OUT OF POLICE; W. F. BAKER TAKES HIS PLACE

First Deputy Commissioner Is Made a Civil-Service Commissioner and Supersedes the Man Who Succeeds Him.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Arthur O'Keefe, of Brooklyn, resigned to-day, immediately to be appointed a member of the Civil Service Commission by the Mayor at a salary of $1,000 less than he had been receiving.

William F. Baker, President of the Civil Service Commission, was thereupon named to succeed O'Keefe, and Frank L. Polk, a member of the Commission, was elected president of that body in Baker's place.

It is stated that the difference in salary in O'Keefe's case will be made good with an officially established increase.

His resignation was suggested with the assurance that he would get another position. He was told, it is learned, that his place was wanted and that he would be taken care of.

It is stated that he had several talks with the Mayor on this score and the changes were then rung which started local politicians guessing.

John H. O'Brien, the Mayor's political adviser, is also a figure in the changes made to-day in rapid fire and rearranged fashion. He and Senator Patrick McCarran had talked the matter over before its consummation to-day.

O'Keefe knows the whys and wherefores of the move, in which he figured as a pawn, but is saying nothing just now. He said when asked to-day to explain just the reason for his transfer:

"Please don't ask too many questions."

Doesn't Like Change.
O'Keefe's transfer was objectionable to him, but he took his medicine when he discovered that the change was determined upon.

There was a story in circulation to the effect that when Senator McCarran called on the Mayor, just before the board of Aldermen re-elected Borough President Ahern, the Senator talked with the Mayor concerning the transfer of O'Keefe. Senator McCarran is said to be pleased with the work of O'Keefe in Brooklyn, and desired that President Baker have his place. Baker and McCarran are good friends.

Senator McCarran is to look after Mayor McClellan's legislative interests in Albany this year, and the Mayor has begun to regard the Senator as his active lieutenant at the capital.

Mayor McClellan, through his secretary, William Willis, said to-day that the transfer of Deputy Commissioner O'Keefe was done through friendly office and for the good of the service practically. The Mayor himself declined to be interviewed.

Bingham Sorry to Lose Him.
Commissioner Bingham was outspoken in his expressed regret for O'Keefe as a police official and said that he was sorry to lose him.

LONG LINE OF BOYS AGAIN IN WESTON WALK

Youngsters Show Great Enthusiasm in Jaunt with Pedestrian.

NOT ONE DROPPED OUT.

Boys Retained Their Alignment From the Start to the Finish.

Followed by a crowd of three hundred enthusiastic youthful pedestrians, Edward Payson Weston led the way in a four mile march jaunt part of the way around Central Park to-day. It was the third walk of the series, and the following boys enjoyed the tramp hugely, following the steady pace of the veteran Weston like little Trojans. From start to finish the band of walkers continued the trudge, not a little man of the lot dropping by the wayside. Spectators stopped to watch the progress of the walkers, who four abreast swung along the route in steady, determined manner.

All of the boys had followed the frequently given advice of Weston with reference to proper clothing and outfit for the Evening World walks. The lads, all of whom had joined in the other walks, were clad warmly but loosely, and their feet were encased in heavy walking shoes, just the kind necessary for a four mile tramp.

The air was crisp and the weather fine—just the sort for a long walk. Under instructions from Weston the boys threw back their shoulders, expanded their chests, taking in great quantities of cold, fresh air. They obeyed these orders throughout. Many old men fell into line enroute and attempted to keep up with the steady pace, but not all of them were equal to the task. The boys retained their alignment, showing a keen relish of the sport, and presented an orderly appearance to the end.

When the walk ended Weston congratulated the young pedestrians and said that if they kept up their walking spree every day they would grow into strong and vigorous men. He dismissed the delegation amid cheers, after warning the boys to not loiter in the cold air, but to hurry home and change their clothing for dry togs from the skin out.

DAUGHTER'S SUIT FOR MILLIONS MAY HALT TITLE

Widow of Brewer Schmid Was Reported Engaged to Nobleman.

The fifty-page complaint, filed by Lewis S. Phillips, of No. 4 Broadway, in the suit of Mrs. Pauline Schmid Murray against her mother, Josephine Schmid, widow of the millionaire brewer, August Schmid, of Bernheimer & Schmid, and which has been described as "a friendly suit, preliminary to the marriage of the widow to a foreign nobleman," reads like anything but a friendly suit.

The complaint sets forth that August Schmid died June 4, 1889, leaving an immense estate. There was the widow and two daughters, Pauline and Josephine, and August Schmid by his will left one-half of his estate to his wife and the rest of the estate in trust to the widow for life, and to the two daughters or the survivors of them or their heirs, at her death.

"I loved and venerated my mother," the complaint reads, "but I have not received my due share of the estate."

Josephine Schmid, is now dead, and Pauline claims the remaining right to the whole estate.

She asks that all of the real estate left by her father be protected for her.

MARSE ABE IN FRONT.

Favorite Takes the "Baby Race" From Hammock Boy, 50-to-1 Shot.

(Special to The Evening World.)
NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 9.—With clear weather, in which there was just enough of chill to make it really bracing and a track that was rapidly drying out and nearer fast than has been the rule at the Fair Grounds this winter, racing affairs were looking up a bit to-day. So far as the track was concerned the trainers were satisfied if their horses could be kept out of one bit of treacherous going on the stretch turn, and on the advice of Supt. Meyers they instructed their jockeys to avoid that pitfall.

The effort of the secretary to provide a feature in the way of an over-night handicap failed. Over-night handicaps are difficult propositions here just now when so many condition and high-priced selling races are offered. To-day the best numbers were a high-class selling race at a mile and seventy yards and a sprint of three furlongs for two-year-olds. Several new ones were introduced in the event for baby racers and the usual number of hot tips were about.

FIRST RACE.—Purse $500 for maiden two-year-olds, three furlongs—Marse Abe, 112 (J. Lee), 7 to 5 and 3 to 5, first; Hammock Boy, 112 (Alex), 50 to 1 and 20 to 1, second; Martiza, 112 (Neel), 7 to 1 and 3 to 1, third. Time—1:17 2-5. Dr. Armstrong, Lieber Light, Dick Coghill, Tony W., Intervene, Rossburg II., Eustachian, Ned Carmack, Cuban Boy, Servience, Mique Obrien and Pocotaligo also ran.

SECOND RACE.—Purse $400; three-year-olds and up; selling, six furlongs—Sweetener, 106 (V. Powers), 12 to 5 and even, first; Bucking Boy, 102 (Lee), 10 to 1 and 4 to 1, second; Ben Sand, 100 (Fairbrother), 50 to 1 and 20 to 1, third. Time—1:17 2-5. Our Boy, Rrnestone, Polar Star, Tarquin, Bayou Lark, M. J. Whalen, Orlandot, Patience, Stoneman and Opie Reed also ran.

THIRD RACE.—Purse $300 for three-year-olds, colts and geldings; selling, six furlongs—Bitter Sir, 106 (V. Powers), 2 to 1 and 7 to 1, first; Alsatian, 114 (H. McDaniel), 11 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; Stone Street, 105 (Lloyd), 12 to 1 and 5 to 1, third. Time—1:17 1-5. Arrow Swift, Bounding Elk, King Thistle, Sabador, Tackie, Brown Thistle, Dick Rose, Thomas Calhoun and William H. Lyons also ran.

The Schmid estate, which included the Lion Brewery and Lion Park, at Columbus avenue, One Hundred and Seventh and One Hundred and Eighth streets, now occupied by apartment houses, was estimated at $2,000,000 at his death. It is now said to be worth fully five times that sum.

The widow Schmid developed a splendid business capacity. She lives at No. 87 Fifth avenue.

COLUMBIA MEN HOODLUMS AND IGNORAMUSES

So Magistrate Herrman Declared When He Issued Summonses Against Six.

Magistrate Herrman has decided ideas about Columbia University students. He says they are hoodlums, ignoramuses, a disgrace to the community and no good generally. The Magistrate fairly raved about them in the West Side Police Court this afternoon when Frank Lusk, proprietor of a shorthand school at No. 147 West Forty-second street, appeared before him to complain about the actions of certain young men who are studying at the Hastings Studio. The Hastings Studio is a department of the university and occupies a floor in Forty-second street building directly above that used by the Lusk school.

"The actions of the young men have been most disgraceful," declared Mr.

Lusk. "They are worthy of the lowest hoodlums. These talented youths hang out the windows and spit upon the young ladies passing in and out of my school. The remarks they make are filthy. They put sand and other things in the water pipes and so conduct themselves in general that I cannot keep my pupils unless I get some relief."

"I believe every word of it," said the Magistrate. "I will gladly issue summonses for all you wish to complain against. The more the better."

"These college students think they are better than anybody else. They are a disgrace to the community—a set of ignoramuses and hoodlums who deserve to be suppressed. They think they own the town, and I shall take pleasure in showing them differently."

At the request of Mr. Lusk a summons was issued for Mr. Norris, who is said to be in charge of the Hastings Studio. Six John Doe summonses to be served upon students known to Mr. Lusk by sight but not by name were also issued. In company with Police-Man Harrigan the shorthand teacher hurried away to serve them.

The students will be arraigned in the West Side Court to-morrow.

Harry and Evelyn Thaw, between whom there has been for several days some shadow of disagreement plainly observable by those in attendance at the trial, kissed and made up this afternoon.

The constraint which has previously held both fell from them during the afternoon session, and they gazed at each other with the smiling confidence and affection that marked their demeanor during the first trial.

Rumors of a serious disagreement between Thaw and his wife have been rife since the trial of the young man for murder opened on Monday morning. By their actions it was plainly shown that they were not in full accord. The occasional glances which Thaw shot at his wife were not affectionate, and her eyes had a trace of appeal in them when she looked at him.

During the noon intermission to-day Mrs. Thaw went to the Tombs and talked with her husband. They walked together over the Bridge of Sighs to the courtroom. As they reached the gate the young woman said:

"Aren't you going to make up, Harry?"

He looked at her for a second. Then clasped her in his arms and kissed her. As they parted she patted him on the shoulder with this injunction:

"Now, be brave."

The jury went back to the numerical strength it showed at the close of last night's session when the trial was resumed this afternoon. During the morning six provisional jurors had taken seats in the box.

While the intermission was on District Attorney Jerome determined to challenge three of the men who had been provisionally accepted. Mr. Littleton, Thaw's counsel, arranged to challenge three others. When these challenges were offered at the beginning of the proceedings there were but six jurymen left.

When Mrs. Thaw returned to the courtroom this afternoon she was accompanied by Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, with whom she chatted amiably.

Must Get Jury Quickly.
The Thaw jury must be complete before court adjourns to-morrow. This was the order issued to District Attorney Jerome and the counsel for the defense when Justice Dowling came on the bench to-day in the Supreme Court. The six jurors who were sworn up to that time were drawn from three panels of one hundred each. The remaining six must be drawn from two panels, one called for to-day and one for to-morrow.

The instant the lawyers began examining talemans to-day, the Court commenced to whip up the method of inquiry, cutting in when it seemed that a question to a talemans was not clear. The ruddy Justice is determined to make a record of the second trial of
